

As Auburn students ourselves, we have experienced the problem of not being able to participate in band due to our choice of attending Auburn. Students want to be able to go to Auburn and CCP while doing band. But that's the issue students cannot do band and Auburn/CCP it's one or the other. Band students that have been taking band have to quit to be able to go to Auburn or CCP. Shouldn't all students have the opportunity to pursue whatever education/activities that they want to? Being in band counts as 0.5 physical education credit and helps with leadership and group working skills. Students could benefit from being in band and Auburn/CCP where is the problem with doing both, it develops many skills yet we are denied the option of both. The school has done a very nice job letting students go to Auburn and CCP while being able to go to other classes why is band any different. We students put in enough work and are willing to do more if given the chance, so why not give us that chance?
